| chest, stiffening of his shoulders and arms, and began clenching his fists) while making statements about victim 1. He stated victim 1 was the one and began walking towards victim 1 as if he were about to fight him. The defendant attempted to push past LEO and had to be physically stopped from advancing to victim 1. I placed my hand on the defendant's chest and told him to stop his actions and return to making his statement about the incident. The defendant again tried to push past LEO towards victim 1 in order to fight him. LEO then attempted to detain the defendant in handcuffs and began physically resisting by tensing his arms, pulling away, and twisting his arms while trying to spin around and face LEO. LEO gave multiple commands to stop resisting which he ignored. LEO was able to force the defendant against a nearby fence and force his arms behind his back and apply the handcuffs. Solution Once the investigation was completed and probable cause was established, the defendant was informed he was under arrest. The defendant refused to enter the rear of the patrol vehicle and had to be physically pushed into the car where he began stiffening his body in an attempt to prevent LEO from placing him in the back seat. He then began forcing his feet into the door jam in order to prevent the door from being shut. The defendant's clegs had to be hobbled together which the defendant resisted efforts by kicking his feet towards officers applying the hobble. His feet were able to be hobbled together and forced into the floorboard where his feet were secured via the hobble leash in order to get his lower body secured inside the vehicle. By this time the defendant laid backwards in the seat causing his head to sit where the opposite door would come to rest.
